Final Contracts Signed For Shipyard

Firm To Operate P & H Terminal

by Adoree Shortle
Echo staff writer

A Houston based firm will operate the port terminal at Port Blenville Industrial Park by contractual agreement consummated Friday with Hancock County supervisors and P&H authorities.

Working under the separate corporate name of Jackson Landing Shipyard, Inc., the company will also operate a barge repair and manufacture shipyard at the port.

Terms of the terminal contract worked out a lengthy meeting June 21, call for the facility to be kept open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The company will pay the county $24,000 at the end of the second year of operation and another $24,000 at the end of the third year of operation, or 15 percent of the gross income, whichever is greater.

After 36 months, the terminal contract will be opened for negotiation for 15 subsequent years with option clauses at the end of each five-year period, and a $120,000 payment due at the end of the first five-year period.

Although the contract has been signed there has not been a clear delineation of which party will supply off-loading equipment necessary for a successful terminal operation.

At the June 21 meeting, the matter came under lengthy discussion as the original proposal by the corporation asked that the county supply stevedoring equipment such as cranes, fork lifts, car pulleys, dollies, rollers, and the like.

Speaking for the county and the Port and Harbor, A.A. Kellar, president of the board of supervisors, said the county is unable to afford the capital outlay, which could amount to as much as $500,000. The county's obligation, he felt, should be only for a crane over water and a warehouse, as was supplied by the Vicksburg port commission.

James Dunn, corporation officer, maintained that the company, which anticipates excessive construction and organizational expenditures, was unwilling to "pay for the equipment which you all will own".

The extra equipment is necessary, Dunn said, as the wharf design does not bring the railroad to water side, requiring extra stevedoring. Some discourse followed on the feasibility of running the railroad to the water, to off load from water to rail, rather than water to land to rail. Kellar noted that, according to the consulting engineer, instability of the land at the dockside could not support the weight of the railroad.

The county would make every effort possible to assist in securing the extra equipment, Kellar concluded, but would make no firm commitment beyond the crane and the 20,000 feet warehouse, the latter incorporated as part of the port facility now under construction.

Anticipated completion of the port is January 1974. Port and Harbor Director Dr. Michael Smith said, at which time the corporation will assume occupancy and begin operation of the terminal.

SIGNED, SEALED AND ..... all the other things necessary to executing a legal document are done to contracts for a new shipyard at Port Blenville as well as a terminal operation lease by a Houston corporation. Above, left to right, signatures are: Fritz Harris, added by Hancock County Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar, Michael Haas, attorney for the firm, Port and Harbor Comm. President Dr. John Levens and P&H Comm. secretary.

Final contracts were signed Friday between Hancock County officials and a newly-organized Houston, Tex., firm for a $100,000 land sale at the Port and Harbor Industrial Park.

The company, Jackson Landing Shipyard, Inc. has purchased a 40-acre tract in the Northwest portion of Lot 5, the site adjacent to the industrial canal, at a fixed cost of $2,500 per acre. By terms of the sale contract $20,000 was paid Friday to the county after a contract, signed by A.A. Kellar, president of the board of supervisors, and Dr. John Levens, Port and Harbor Comm. president.

The balance of $80,000 will be paid on delivery of a special warranty deed. Deadline for consummation of the deed is July 30.

A barge repair and manufacturing shipyard is planned for the site with a potential employment complement of 300 to 400. The initial phase of the development, which will entail topside repair and modification of barges, will be completed within 120 days after the start of construction. According to Robert A. Flautt, vice-president in charge of operations, an estimated eight to 12 barges per month will be repaired or re-conditioned during operation of phase one.

The second phase of the operation will involve construction of a marine railway to facilitate dry-docking of barges and the final development will be installation of a barge manufacturing facility ultimately to produce a barge a week.

By January 1974 the company expects to have hired about 300 employees with shipfitters, welders and riggers comprising the greatest percentage of skilled mechanics. Carpenters, machinery operators, cleaners and painters will also be required.

Plant maintenance and specialized programs will require electricians, pipefitters and machinists, with a relatively small force of technical, clerical and security personnel rounding out the employment complement.

Flautt said six key people will be brought in initially to head up the work force, however, the balance of personnel is expected to be hired locally.

In addition the company will construct its own railroad spur from the main line of the Port Blenville Railroad.

Police Search For Freight Train Murder Suspect

Investigation of Ernest L. Porterfield's bizarre story, told to Pass Christian police Monday night, and the discovery early Tuesday morning of the man's body in Lakeshore has led to a nationwide search for the alleged killer.

Some time before 9 p.m. Monday Pass Christian police picked up Porterfield who told Police Chief Gerald Peralta that a man had been killed and he had been attacked by an unidentified assailant on an L&N freight train which he thought was traveling west. Porterfield was taken to Harrison County jail and detained on a simply drunk charge while police began an investigation of his story.

New Orleans police and L&N detectives were notified but investigation of incoming Westbound freight trains and railroad yards around the city failed to provide any clues to substantiate Porterfield's claims.

About 8:10 a.m. Tuesday four L&N employees, on their way to work in two high rail motorcars, discovered the body of a man beside the tracks near the Lakeshore station.

Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner identified the four workmen as Milton Lafontaine and his brother Owen, both of Bay St. Louis, O.H. Robinson and William McInville, both of Alabama.

The dead man, clad only in a pair of torn work pants, was lying about ten feet from the tracks in a pool of blood. A trail of bloodstains in the shale, running 66 feet along the tracks, indicated that the man had been dragged or rolled for that distance, according to County Coroner Emile Piazza. The man's throat had been gashed and there were deep cuts and abrasions on the head and face. Piazza reported the left side of the body was badly torn and other marks indicated that the man had been beaten before dying.

Sheriff Ladner and Deputy Lathon Garriga answered the workmen's call and began an investigation into the incident. The body was taken by Riemann Fahey ambulance to the Bay St. Louis funeral home.

L&N Detective Bruce Greenfield, based in New Orleans, and Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Investigator Gerald Winstead, called in on the case by Sheriff Ladner, interrogated Porterfield Tuesday afternoon in Bay St. Louis. The following details from a signed statement by Porterfield were released by the sheriff.

Porterfield, 34, a native of Big Rapids, Mich. and the dead man who was identified as Clarence Edward Malone, 39, Greenville, S.C., were released along with three other men from parish prison in New Orleans Monday afternoon.

boarded a boxcar on a freight train going through a New Orleans suburb about 7 p.m. L&N officials said the train was bound for Mobile.

As the train traveled through the night the three men were drinking heavily, Porterfield said. After awhile he dozed off as the other two men, in a heated discussion over boxing, began scuffling at the other end of the car.

Porterfield said he awoke as the unidentified man was attempting to push Malone off the rapidly moving train. Porterfield cried out to him to stop but, he related, the assailant told him, "He's going to die anyway 'cause I've stabbed him."

Slain Man Found In Lakeshore

Oakley Escapee Captured

An armed 16-year-old escapee from Oakley Training School, who told police he had returned to kill the person who sent him to Oakley, led a posse of law enforcement officers on a wild chase through Waveland woods Thursday night before he and a 17-year-old companion were captured.

The incident began shortly after 10 p.m. when State Highway Safety Patrolman Clyde Hester heard a radio alert Bay Patrolman Emmitt Ellis that two males in a 1964 Chevrolet had stopped for gas in a station at Dunbar Ave. and Highway 90, then sped off without paying.

Shortly after, Hester said, he passed the car in question on Highway 90 six miles north of Jordan River Shores, traveling south at an excessive rate of speed.

Turning in pursuit, the Highway Patrolman said he chased the car for several miles at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour until the fleeing vehicle turned off onto the Waveland Cutoff Road. Still following, Hester radioed for a road block at the end of the Cutoff Rd. where it intersects Highway 90.

Although Hancock Sheriff's Deputy Edward Jennings, Constables Sam Perniciaro and Terry Tartavouille were stationed at the intersection, the speeding car eluded the road block and raced onto the highway where it hit an eastbound car, causing that vehicle to skid 150 feet across four lanes of traffic coming to a stop in a parking lot.

Hester then fired three shots at the tires of the fleeing automobile which came to a stop on the south side of the highway. The 16-year-old driver, a local youth, jumped out of the car and pointed a .32 calibre pistol at Hester who was about 25 yards away. Hester fired another warning shot over the boy's head calling to him to stop.

Instead the youth turned and fled barefoot into thick woods beside the highway. When another shot over his head failed to stop the young fugitive Hester called for his wife to bring his K-9 trained shepherd, and asked Bay and Waveland police, highway patrol and the sheriff's department for assistance.

Led by the dog, Hester and Hancock Deputies Ronald Peterson, Paul Bernard, Ed Jennings, Constable Perniciaro and Highway Patrolman N. F. McCord tracked the boy for 30 minutes in the dark woods as he circled back toward the highway and the old truck scales, the spot where the chase began.

As the dog ran toward the Tiki Lounge, Waveland Police Officer Pete Noto pulled the youth, still holding the pistol, from a car parked beside the lounge. Tartavouille and Jennings discovered the 17-year-old, also a runaway from Oakley, hiding on the back seat of the Chevrolet.

HASH IS THE NAME ... and tracking fugitives is the specialty of the two-year-old German Shepherd above with his owner and trainer, State Highway Safety Patrolman Clyde Hester. Hash, who has been trained for K-9 police work since he was a small puppy, has tracked many fugitives through Hancock County woods and hasn't missed a man, or boy, yet. Hester and the dog are pictured minutes after a 30-minute chase through Waveland woods after an armed 16-year-old Oakley

Supervisors Resolve Road Repair Conflict

Hancock County supervisors "will have to forget about beat lines" and regard the county road repair project under revenue sharing funding as one overall county program, Board Attorney Sam Favre told supervisors at a Monday meeting.

Favre's remarks came as a result of a lengthy discussion over reputed inequities in setting priorities on the 14 roads designated for the initial phase. Three of the five supervisors accused Beat Five Supervisor James Travira of garnering the lion's share of roadwork.

"We had a gentleman's agreement that the money from the first two revenue sharing checks would be equally divided among the five beats," Beat Four Supervisor H. "Bully" Zengarling said, referring to the fact that beat five roads would claim about 50 percent of the $195,160 allocated for the first phase.

In agreeing with Zengarling, Jerry Ladner said he also felt that all work orders issued by the county engineer should be first submitted to the board for approval. Travira said to do this would hamper progress on the project and in rebuttal to Zengarling's contention, reminded the other board members that he had told them he anticipated "overrunning" in the first phase but would spend less in the second.

The matter was resolved when Chancery Clerk John Rutherford informed the board that there would be more money available in the first phase than anticipated and the pro-rata share even greater after receipt of some $108,000 in January.

Favre reminded supervisors that if they didn't adopt a "one-unit" attitude in addition, he stated, the board must hold to specifications of the road project contract as awarded to Don Breland. "He based his bid price on those specific roads," Favre admonished, "and that can not be changed now".

The matter was resolved with Travira's concurrence that there would be less expenditure planned in his beat on the next contract.

Regarding some initial delay in Breland's performance bond for the job, Favre said the bond, which has been jointly filed with another individual and carried by Firemen's Fund Co., has been deemed acceptable by state standards.

In an unrelated matter, the board passed a motion by Ladner, seconded by Travira, to request that the Port and Harbor Commission publish its monthly claims docket in the paper as the county does.

The meeting was recessed until July 16, 10 a.m.

ASSESSMENT CLARIFIED

Less than one half million of the $4 million increase in county land assessments for 1973 can be attributed to a $2 per acre raise in assessments, George Heitzmann, Hancock County tax assessor-collector said.

In a July 5 Echo story, Heitzmann was quoted as attributing the entire increase to the tax raise. Actually, Heitzmann stated, the majority of the increase was due to new construction in Waveland, Bay St. Louis, Diamondhead and general county development.

Red Beans And Rice

Adore Shortle

The Last Laugh

Why, they keep saying, will you not do Red Beans any more?

Without getting maudlin, let me try to explain. You can eat red beans without rice, or you can eat rice without red beans. Either way, it's pretty blah. And it's not the same thing.

Or if you cook red beans without the right seasonings, like garlic, salt pork and red pepper—what have you got? A bunch of boiled beans. "Like limp blisters."

It all comes down to the fact that without all the right components, you haven't got red beans and rice. The column was conceived and executed as a joint effort.

She thought of it, I named it, we both wrote it. Usually about 2 a.m. Tuesday night, which leaves one wall-eyed on Wednesday. But that's the name of the newspaper game.

We took swipes at a lot of people and some more than others, but never anybody that we didn't like. Special people got mentioned often because we knew that they would take the column the way it was meant—as a gentle chiding, and always with humor. Because if you can't look at life with humor, you're not living.

It was our own peculiar way of paying tribute to those who don't take themselves seriously, because we never took anything seriously for long. Independently or jointly.

Somehow, we always came up with a pretty good dish—two by each, as they say in the trade, because that's the way it had to be.

So it's only logical that Shortle without Maher is not Red Beans and Rice. There will still be a lot of red beans around and up in the Delta there will be a good serving of rice—but that's a whole different dish. Watch for it.

We're just turning off the stove and putting the pot away. The fire is out—only the glow remains.

Ladner Raps Board On Bayside Pk.

County supervisors are purposely confusing the issue on the repair of controversial Bayside Park roads, beat one Supervisor Jerry Ladner said, in a Friday statement to the press.

Ladner was referring to mounting controversy over the other four supervisors on unimproved roads in the Highway 90 subdivision, which Ladner contends is illegal.

Disgruntled residents living on unsurfaced roads in the subdivision have made repeated appeals to the county board for some relief from what they described as "hazardous conditions". Ladner steadfastly refused to work on the roads, which he said had never been accepted by the county and were still considered private property as belonging to the developer, William Bosworth, Jr.

At an April 10, 1973 meeting of the board, a resolution was passed by a four-to-one vote with Ladner voting against to repair and grade the roads in question.

Vindication for the action as stated in the resolution was the acknowledgment that "there exists an actual emergency" and the board felt that "it is in the public interest that immediate action be taken."

Police Report

Bay St. Louis police responded to 53 calls during the period July 5 - July 11.

Vandals broke into the Bay St. Louis Post Office July 5, put a water hose in the basement and flooded that area. Police are checking the building to prevent any more vandalism.

Police reported that Gary's Pool Hall on North Beach was burglarized July 5. Money was taken from the pool tables and cigarettes and sandwiches stolen.

Robert Andrews reported to police that a 1972 Kawasaki motorcycle was stolen July 6 from Bay Royale Apartments.

Two Bay St. Louis juveniles, ages nine and 11, were arrested July 6 in connection with vandalism of 11 homes in Spanish Acres subdivision. Damage to the homes is estimated at $800. Both juveniles were turned over to their parents until their cases can be heard before the Hancock County Youth Court.

necessary repairs be made to said streets". The resolution authorized county equipment to make repairs and maintain the roads for six weeks.

Ladner's contention was that the action was illegal and therefore the resolution invalid. He pointed out the admission in the resolution that the streets are "subject to private ownership" and that the actual conflict exists between lot owners and the developer, which should be resolved by private litigation.

In support of his claims, Ladner produced copies of minutes from a November 6, 1967 meeting in which motion by Supervisor A. A. Kellar (now board president) was passed to accept Bayside Park streets that were "fully improved with hard surfacing and drainage, meeting the requirements of the board".

Minutes of a February 3, 1969 meeting further clarified the issue with a motion by C.A. Russ, seconded by Kellar, which stated that Bayside Park roads accepted by the county were "restricted to being fully improved with hard surfacing and drainage and not unimproved roads".

The board went on record as disclaiming any liability for maintenance of any unimproved roads in said subdivision and that the owner or owners "be notified accordingly".

Friday Ladner stated, "If the board had supported me in the beginning to force we wouldn't have this problem now." State law specifically prohibits the use of any county equipment or funds on private property and violation of that law can lead to prosecution, Ladner maintained.

Hancock Bank recently instigated foreclosure proceedings on Bosworth Construction, Inc. of New Orleans, present owners of the development, restricting any further sale of property in the subdivision. However, to date no effort has been made by the

Senior Programs Expanded

Formal opening ceremonies were held recently for two additional programs of interest to local senior citizens.

About 60 people were on hand for the opening of the senior citizens program at the VFW Hall in the Kiln. Father Pierre gave the invocation preceding the program. Special guests included the Hancock County supervisors; Mrs. Jean Kennedy, Coordinator of the Area-wide Model Project in Gulfport, and her assistant, Mrs. Byrd Cassibry; and representatives from the Mississippi Council on Aging in Jackson and the HEW Office in Atlanta. Mrs. Irma Cuevas, Director of the Kiln program, announced that programs will be held on the last Thursday of each month at 1:30 p.m. at the Kiln VFW Hall.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new federally-funded RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) was held Monday afternoon at the Valena C. Jones building, with Mayor Warren Carver of Bay St. Louis officiating. Other city and county officials were among the more than 80 guests attending the ceremony.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Dwyne Mounger, and the Rev. Bernard Walton gave the benediction. Master of ceremonies was Norton Haas, Sr., Chairman of the Hancock County United Fund, grantee

Bay Closes CD Director

The position of Civil Defense director for the city of Bay St. Louis was abolished by motion of the city council at a July 6 meeting.

There was nothing personal in the action Mayor Warren Carver told J.R. Lavoie, who had been serving as a salaried CD director for the city, but it was his feeling that "there are too many Civil Defense directors in the county" and that one full-time county director with deputies in the two municipalities would constitute a better organization. Until arrangements could be worked out, Comm. Lucien Kidd agreed to assume CD responsibilities in case of emergency.

Bay commissioners were scheduled to meet July 12 with county supervisors to discuss incorporating city CD activity under the county director, Carver said.

A motion was passed to set a minimum salary of $175 per month for the city-plumbing inspector. The action was taken by request of plumbing inspector Edward Larroux as he said fees coming in from permits were insufficient.

Bids were rejected for purchase of a 750-gallon pumper for the fire department, although bid advertisements had gone out earlier for the equipment.

to answer requirements from the state fire marshal's department.

Initial reason given for rejection of the bids came from the mayor, who stated that he had talked to "two different people in the fire equipment supply business and they both said we have too much equipment for a city of this size." The council was rejecting the bids for a 750-gal. pumper as "we can't vindicate the expenditure for a larger one now," Carver added.

However, his remarks opened a centering on a letter received some time ago from the state rating bureau inspector, listing a 15-point upgrading program necessary to drop the city's rating from an 8 to a 7.

Fire Chief Richard Fayard explained that all but two of the 15 points had been complied with, leaving only the addition of a 1,000-gal. pumper and another full-time fireman to fully meet the requirements.

The mayor then brought up the matter of the city water tower which is kept at three-quarter capacity, a fact which brought criticism from the state inspector, following an earlier trip. Insufficient water pressure was the telling factor in the rating, Carver maintained, not fire department equipment.

Utility Commissioner Kidd then explained that a document from the health and sanitation department vindicated the necessity for keeping the tower at three-quarter capacity had been accepted by the state, therefore having no bearing on the city's fire insurance rating.

The discussion ended with statement that the council would consider purchase of a 1,000-gal. pumper at a later date.

A procedure for consideration and payment of monthly claims, formerly adopted but not adhered to according to Carver, was outlined by the mayor. All claims must be received by the 25th of each month to be accepted for payment in the beginning of the following month. Any claims coming in after that date will be held over for another 30 days, the mayor explained. A motion was passed unanimously to adopt the procedure.

In an unrelated matter, Joseph Benvenuti was appointed as city justice for a one-year period.

The meeting was recessed until July 9 at 10 a.m., at which time the meeting was cancelled, according to Mayor Carver. No details were given for cancellation of the meeting.

Park Service Plans Two Agencies At MTF

Senator John C. Stennis announced Saturday that two activities are being located at Mississippi Test Facility in Hancock County by the National Park Service and said plans for the establishment of a third Park Service activity at the installation are well under way.

Senator Stennis disclosed the establishment of the Park Service's National Science Center and Ecological Services Laboratory as resident agencies at the South Mississippi site.

The Science Center will initially employ a minimum of 23 persons, but Park Service officials say that figure will grow. The Ecological Services

Laboratory will employ ten people.

Detailed information about the scope of the work that will be done by the two agencies will not be available until the Park Service completes its plans, but Senator Stennis said the nature of the work will consist of environmental research to support all national parks, forests, and parkways.

"This will include the full range of environmental protection research, including air and water quality," the senator said.

"The decision to locate these two activities at M.T.F. was based on the availability of excellent testing laboratories and the fact that environmental research by a number of other government agencies will be located there with them."

The location of a third Park Service program, the Environmental Management Information System, is pending. Senator Stennis said changes in the capability of a bank of computers serving M.T.F. will be necessary before this activity can "move in."

The senator said he has contacted N.A.S.A. administrator Dr. James Fletcher about the problems, and said he has reason to believe an arrangement can be worked out.

ASHER'S Hardware and Grocery opened recently on Highway 90 in Hancock County the store is owned and operated by Albert Asher.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

We (quite properly!) get so excited about celebrating the anniversary of our country's independence and first stop to greatness that we sometimes forget an event which occurred in Europe a few years later and which also was of the utmost importance to the world: the French revolution.

The long dissatisfaction of the people of France finally boiled over in an attack on the ancient prison in Paris, the Bastille, an old castle of no great strength or importance except that it sat squarely in the middle of the city. When it fell on July 14, 1789, and the prisoners were liberated, the people gathered up their dead and wondered what to do next. A few fanatical "patriots" soon showed them. Three years later the streets of Paris literally ran with blood during the September, 1792, massacres. France became a republic, and in January, 1793, the king and queen were beheaded. Then followed the awful year of the Reign of Terror, Napoleon took over the country by force, and in 1795 the French Revolution merged into the Napoleonic Wars. This delightful excitement and bloodshed lasted, off and on, for twenty years until the great Emperor was finally pinned down on St. Helena and the British resumed their stern takeover of the world (except in America).

Day after tomorrow, July 14, we observe Bastille Day, an anniversary of pride and importance to many families in this area. And indeed it was a milestone in human history, although most of us today would agree with the rustic in the poem about the battle of Blenheim, "I know not what it was about, but 'twas a wondrous victory." Did the dead men agree? Did the thousands who died in Napoleon's battles, just plain men like you and me, find death an adequate compensation for their beliefs - and hopes? Or was the conflict nothing more than Poe's observation:

"While the angles, all pallid and wan, Uprising, unveiling, affirm That the play is the tragedy, 'Man', and its hero the Conqueror Worm?"

Men have gone through a thousand crises since the world began; some of them have changed the course of history, but many others have merely added to man's troubles and pain. The fall of the Bastille was the beginning of one of those changes of history, but suppose it had never happened? Is the world a better place for it today? Are people happier and better off because of the countless deaths and suffering that took place on that July day? It is an endless question.

Social Security Information

Beginning July 1, Medicare can help pay for limited chiropractor's services under Medical Insurance, but only under certain conditions, according to Walter H. Hobbs, social security district manager in Gulfport. Pointed out that the chiropractor must be licensed or legally authorized to furnish chiropractic services by the State and also meet federal standards in order to qualify for payment of eligible services by Medicare. In addition, Mr. Hobbs said, "We want to emphasize that coverage of the chiropractor's services under Medicare is very limited. It is important for beneficiaries to know that Medicare can help pay only for Manual Manipulation of the Spine for the purpose of correcting a Subluxation which can be demonstrated by X-Rays. No payment can be made for any other kind of chiropractic treatment or for any diagnostic services by the chiropractor, such as X-Rays or Laboratory tests." A Subluxation is defined as an incomplete dislocation, off-centering, misalignment, fixation or abnormal spacing of the vertebrae. Mr. Hobbs asked that beneficiaries with any question about chiropractic coverage get in touch with their social security office.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

Just a few words of commendation for Supervisor Jerry Ladner, from the residents of Oak St. Clermont Harbor, Miss., for placing oil on the dusty road, thereby settling the blinding dust, and also for cutting the weeds and grass near the edge of ditches. This complimentary letter is a bit late, and the summer won't be over before a repeat of this essential work will be called for again, however we felt a few bouquets were in order, in expressing our appreciation for a job well done. We have always found Jerry willing and dependable in carrying out the wishes of his constituents.

Very Sincerely,
Joseph & Doris Johnson,
410 Oak St. Clermont Harbor, Miss.

'Damn Yankees' is a smash hit at the Beverly Dinner Playhouse. Critics are as enthusiastic as the audiences in their praise. David Cuthbert, Times Picayune, says "The Beverly Dinner Playhouse has won a fan. And I expect they'll be winning lots of new admirers. The Jefferson Parish dinner theatre is currently engaged in a musical production that is not just the best thing seen at this house and not just acceptable professional theatre. It is captivating fare; brisk, breezy and brimming with talent."

WDSU TV's Al Shea

reported to his viewers, "The Beverly Dinner Playhouse is enjoying a super smash hit, the Broadway musical comedy 'Damn Yankees', featuring as many local stars as there are out-of-towners. There's always a good show at the Beverly, but it is going to be hard to repeat the enjoyment of this tip-top production. Local star, Robert Lans (known to many Orleansians as Rivet Heddler) has done a masterful directorial job. This tuneful trip, concerning a 50-year-old incurable Washington Senator's baseball fan who, in a fit of frustration, cries he'd sell his soul to be able to just once 'damn' the Yankee Team, gets his wish; for quicker than you can say Faust, out of a puff of smoke appears Mr. Applegate who changes matinee Joe Boyd into young Joe Hardy who manages to save the day for the Washington Senators. Not only had Director Lans exhibited his distinctive flair for musical comedy blocking, pacing, etc., but he has cast 'Damn Yankees' perfectly. The St. Bernard Voice reviewer, Christina Vella, writes, "Now is one of the Beverly's occasions for a musical, 'Damn Yankees', which comes to New Orleans after a respectable run on Broadway of three hundred years with credentials from Adler, Ross, et al., in a production as glistening and irresistible as a Bank Americard and astoundingly perfect in every detail. The acting is superb, especially considering that the cast numbers 20 players, each with his own comic business to attend to; the dancing shows skill; the choreography is inventive; the tempo trots along; the sets and costumes are tasteful and original; the singing is well-bred enough to listen to but not so remarkable as to embarrass the songs."

Joseph Larose, West Bank Guide, headline, "Beverly homer... 'Yankees' has big innings." The Figaro review, by Joseph del Papa, begins "Damn Yankees" is a terrific show and provides by far the most enjoyable evening I've ever spent at the Beverly Dinner Playhouse. The play has a wonderful score and a good book, to boot, and both are given more than their due in this production."

'Damn Yankees' will run through August 5, with the last show at 2 p.m. matinee that day.

County Agent's Notes

County Agent
Hancock County

MANAGE PERMANENT PASTURE
The management practices applied at this time to our pastures will determine the availability of adequate forage in the late summer and early fall according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

This spring we have had an abundance of rainfall so, most permanent pastures have plenty of grass. Many also have heavy populations of weeds. I have heard the comment from producers that they had more grass than "they knew what to do with." A couple of weeks without rain this time of the year can change this very quickly. We often have dry periods following wet periods so, management practices should be applied to maintain maximum use of grass as either grazing or hay. Fertilized bahia grass and bermuda grass hay harvests through July will be higher in quality and more palatable than later cutting. Also, these grasses produce more forage if they are harvested by grazing or cutting for hay every four to six weeks.

It will still pay to apply nitrogen grass pastures if the grazing or hay is needed. An application of 200 lbs. of Ammonium Nitrate or 150 lbs. of Urea per acre will help assure a grass reserve for fall grazing or to be utilized as frost-free grass in November (December). This grass reserve is good insurance against a dry fall like the fall of 1972.

Pasture rotation is a management practice that will pay big dividends regardless of the level of fertilization. Concentrating large numbers of cattle and grazing off each pasture in a period of 10 to 14 days then moving to another pasture will increase not only consumption of the available forage, but the young tender regrowth will be of higher quality.

Clipping the mature clumps of grass left following grazing to give tender regrowth and dragging pastures to spread manure allows cattle to graze more uniformly and increases carrying capacity and grass consumption. This clipping will help control weeds by spraying to kill broadleaf weeds is the only way to get these pests under control.

The high sale price of cattle along with the high cost of concentrate feed dictates that we depend more on forage to increase profits. To get the most dollar return from your pastures, fertilize, utilize, rotate, control weeds and apply good livestock management practices.

SOIL TESTS

Take the guess work out of your lime and fertilizer program. Soil testing will let you know just how much of each you need. You lose when you use either too much or too little.

Lime to be planted to pastures and row crops in the fall should be sampled now. A representative sample from each field will mean an accurate recommendation from the Soil Testing Laboratory. The recommendation cannot be good if based on a poor sample.

JULY - LIME TIME

Unplanted pastures and crop land are good places to spread lime while other crops are growing. These areas can be limed now without danger of the spreader truck bogging down.

Areas to be fallowed for winter grazing should have the lime spread before or between diskings.

Crop land to be leveled this summer or fall should be checked for lime needs by soil test. Needed lime should be applied after the leveling is completed.

Lime is the farmer's blue-chip investment. Put it on, don't put it off.

COCKLEBUR CONTROL

Most soybean growers can do a better job with directed sprays for weed control than they think. When soybeans are small the only materials that can be legally applied over the top are Tenoran and Norex. Neither of these materials have been completely satisfactory on cocklebur over two inches tall. Both will injure soybeans when applied over the top.

On five to six inch beans, a directed spray of dinoseb is probably the best for cocklebur control even if the weeds are almost as tall as the soybeans.

A follow up application of 2,4-DB after the beans reach eight inches tall will control many of the larger cockleburs. At this stage, 2,4-DB should be applied only as a directed spray. Recent label changes permit a repeat application of 2,4-DB, which adds to its value in controlling large cockleburs.

Car Halved By Train In Ansley

Although a Chrysler Imperial automobile was cut neatly in half by a freight train at an Ansley crossing last week, three passengers in the car escaped with minor injuries.

A sheriff's department report of the freak accident showed that a front wheel of the car, driven by Terrence Turner, 57, became lodged on the tracks at the LaFrance Place crossing in Ansley. Passengers in the auto were his wife, Mrs. Agnes Turner, 55, and the couple's son, Terrence, Jr., 30.

Before the Turners could dislodge the car or get out, a westbound Louisville and Nashville freight train hit the vehicle, shearing the entire front end of the car off and dragging it about 77 feet from the crossing. A witness to the accident said the train traveled 25 car lengths before coming to a stop.

Following closely behind the Chrysler in a pickup truck was another son of the Turners and two passengers.

The Turners, who reside at 6134 Orleans Ave., New Orleans, were taken by Riemann ambulance to Hancock General Hospital for treatment.

Investigating officers were Hancock Deputies Ronald Peterson, Paul Bernard, Robert Tartavouille. They were assisted by Constables Sam Pernicaro and Terry Tartavouille.
